

CONTRIBUTORS

Irati Aguirrezabalaga Berra completed her undergraduate studies in English at the University of Salamanca and her MA in Drama and Performance Studies at University College Dublin. She is doing her PhD at the University of Salamanca, where she focuses on musical theatre and its relationship to fandoms. She is interested in contemporary musical theatre, gender and queer studies, drama, and popular culture.

e-mail address: iratiab97@gmail.com

Sofía Alférez Mendia graduated in English Studies in 2020 at the University of Almería. This year she has also obtained my Master's degree in English Studies: Professional Applications and Intercultural Communication at the same university, and has been granted a scholarship for the initiation to research which belongs to the “Plan Propio de Investigación y Transferencia” from the University of Almería. So far, her research interests lie within the fields of Irish Literature, Philosophy, Gender Studies, and Feminism.

e-mail address: sofiaalferezmendia@gmail.com

Mónica García Morgado is passionate about African American women's fiction and Black Feminism and has a great interest in US Popular Culture in the fields of popular fiction, film, and television series. She is currently working on her master's thesis on Brit Bennett's novels, and she aims to enter a Ph.D. program to research twenty-first-century African American women's fiction.

e-mail address: monica.garcia.morgado@outlook.com

Patricia Guill-Garcia is currently a second-year PhD student in Applied Linguistics at the University of Valencia. She holds a Bachelor's Degree in English Studies and a Master's Degree in Advanced English Studies, which she carried out at the same university. Her research is mainly focused on the area of Teaching English as a Foreign Language, with a specific interest in technology and interaction in the foreign language classroom.

e-mail address: patricia-guill@hotmail.com

Beatriz Hermida Ramos has a BA in English Studies (University of Salamanca) and an MA in Applied Linguistics (Complutense University of Madrid). She is currently a PhD candidate at the University of Salamanca (Spain), where she studies discursive representations of power, resistance and otherness. Her main research interests are Critical Discourse Analysis, science fiction, gender and sexuality.

e-mail address: bhermidaramos@gmail.com

Ángeles Jordán Soriano obtained her Bachelor's Degree in English Studies at the University of Almería in 2019 and earned her Master's Degree in English Studies at the University of Almería in 2020. In 2021 she obtained the Patricia Shaw Research Award granted by The Spanish Association for Anglo-American Studies (AEDEAN). She is currently working on her Ph.D. dissertation on the influence of politics in culture during the 1960s in Great Britain. Her research focuses on the artistic production during Harold Wilson's first government (1964-1970).

e-mail address: ajs895@ual.es

Claudia Martori is currently enrolled in the Construction and Representation of Cultural Identity doctoral program at Universitat de Barcelona and is working on a thesis that focusses on posthumanism and transhumanism in the work of Jeanette Winterson. She graduated from English Studies at the same university and holds a master's degree in Comparative Studies of Literature, Art and Thought from Universitat Pompeu Fabra. Her research interests are contemporary literature, contemporary philosophy, artificial intelligence, and film.

e-mail address: martoriclaudia@gmail.com

